* hi I see the same in bash... I even did "apt-get remove libphonenum-java" and it still does it! and then after it's done apt-get install, it installs it again Also, this is a fresh install of 14.04 What is the new installer. I cannot get it to boot into live cd. Am I trying to far? Where is a list of officially supported OS's on UBUNTU? so i know if i can run it or not.. 14.04 is supported on i'm having trouble finding a list of supported OS's.. veks, not all of them, they must check with canonical veks, ubuntu website, download page veks, here: where's the ubuntu touch channel? kostkon - the webpage says "LTS will be supported for 5 years" and "latest release will be supported for 9 months" veks, which webpage? so the LTS is 5 years? and the latest is 9 months? veks, the LTS version will be supported for 5 years on desktop and 3 years on server and 12.04 on netbook, the latest version is supported for 9 months only on desktop and server kostkon - the webpage is not very clear to me, and i can't get the right numbers from it. I know the support period on 14.04 is 9 months on server. but there is no date to 14.04.1 veks, in that case, the latest version will be supported for 6 months on desktop and 3 months on 82157476af
